

Feature Article

Prior to the 2016 presidential election, millions of Americans lived with a nervous feeling in the pit of their stomachs at the real possibility of Hillary Clinton becoming the President of the United States. Bass Johnson was one of those Americans. And like millions of her fellow citizens, she rolled the dice and helped elect President Donald J Trump the 45th president of the United States. But soon after the election, she realized that the fight to save America from leftist Democrats was still far from over and that the mainstream media that actively promoted the Hillary Clinton campaign was now working with Democrats to undermine the Trump presidency.

This was not a surprise to Bass Johnson that the current mainstream media and entertainment industry was unleashing their venom onto President Trump and his supporters. It was nothing new and just another in a long line of attacks from the current mainstream media against anything not in line with their leftist ideology. And it is the author's firm belief that God loving conservatives can no longer afford to allow the left to go unchallenged in the mainstream arena and expect to keep our country free. It was this conviction and desire to topple the left's control over the mainstream media that inspired Bass Johnson to write "The Missing Links to Making Conservative Principles and Judeo Christian Values the Mainstream of America".

It had become painfully obvious to Bass Johnson that it was not enough to expose all the abominations of the left in just conservative circles and expect to soundly defeat Democrats come election time. She knew more needed to be done to expose the failures, hypocrisy and corruption of the Democrat Party to more people or risk losing the country as founded. She maintains that a large section of our population does not know about all the hypocrisy on the part of Democrats or what really happened in Benghazi, the stories of Planned Parenthood selling aborted baby parts, the IRS targeting conservative groups, the two-tiered justice system, the legalization of infanticide and all the other stories just as damning about the Democrats because the current liberal mainstream is either distorting or dismissing those stories to their mainstream audiences. She states in the book that Hollywood and Silicon Valley liberals have stacked the deck against God loving conservatives and overwhelmingly dominate in mainstream news and entertainment. And these limousine liberals use the mainstream in various ways to give cover to the Democrats, promote the left wing agenda and trash, ban or censor all those who challenge the world view of the left. But Bass Johnson points out, luckily for conservatives, there is something freedom loving Americans can do to take the mainstream advantage away from the left and reach the misguided uninformed masses.

This book by Bass Johnson is different than most conservative political books in that its main focus is not raising awareness of what the left is doing to propagandize mainstream news and entertainment, but more about what conservatives need to do to turn the situation around. It's a how to book that specifically tells conservatives what they need to do to fill in the missing links in their arsenal that are preventing them from competing and defeating the lefts hold over mainstream news and entertainment. She believes it is vital that conservatives get up to speed in the mainstream arena and work in conjunction with voices like conservative talk radio and others in the media that expose the left in order to reach those who only get their news and information from mainstream sources.

Bass Johnson predicts that once conservatives compete with the left in the mainstream arena, the left will be soundly defeated in the mainstream and at the ballot box because of one fatal flaw the left has made. She maintains the left has built their empire on a foundation of sand. So as long as conservative build on a foundation of rock based on what is right instead of wrong, truth instead of lies, common sense instead of nonsense, conservatism instead of moderate liberalism and last but certainly not least Judeo-Christian values that conservatives will prevail and the left will no longer be a threat to freedom loving Americans. But she warns if these steps are not taken, God loving conservatives will continue to run the risk of losing our country to those who wish to take the land of the free and the home of the brave away from we the people.